An OPINION .- An Englishman who was in Washington during the session of the late Congress, thus gives his opinion of the person-Lel of the members. He says:

"There is nothing statesmanlike whatever about them. I am reminded all the while of a low style of pleading in court, I see before me a crowd of third-rate lawyers, who are playing the old tricks of the trade. I never heard a word that is destined to live or fix itself in the hearts of men. I do not believe there is a man in the present House of Representatives of either party who could gain or would deserve a second hearing in the House of Commons or a French Assembly. Deplorably low as is the general style of discussion in the American press, it often rises far above anything uttered in Congress.'

THE STORY of the Wreck of the United States war steamer Sacramento, on her voyage from Madras to Calcutta, contains an incident worthy of something more than a brief notice. The cutter and the raft, containing twentynine souls, were drifted out to sea by the turning of the tide and an adverse wind .-Without food or water for thirty-six hours, the unfortunate seamen were so much weakened Ly exposure as to be unable to maintain their places on the raft and were washed off. Providentially, a colored man among the crew was courageous enough to swim out and rescue the drowning men. When picked up by the Engglish steamer Arabia, he was the last man to leave the boat. The slightest reward for so brave an action would be to mention the name of the hero, but we are left in ignorance. A list of officers saved is given, but their rescuer is allowed to remain in obscurity.

All Peruvian Guano received by me comes direct from the ships in which it is imported, or from the warehouses of the Peruvian Government, which grants no special privileges to any one. I have on hand and will always keep an abundant supply of No, 1 of the best quality,

GUANO-REED'S AMMONIATED SU-PERPHOSPHATE OF LIME.-The best superphosphate yet offered to the farmer, possessing all the activity of Peruvian Guano, but being far more durable in its effects. It contains a large amount of animal matter in a highly concentrated form, which, combined with its soluble bone phosphate of lime, cannot fail to render it very valuable as a fertilizer .-Notwithstanding we believe it to be the best super-phosphate in the market, yet, by a process peculiar in its manufacture, whereby the expenses are lessened, we are enabled to sell it
